

Field for Dissertations

Capabilities and uncertainty/insecurity

This field focuses on the relation in families, between the members of a family and in peer groups under uncertain social conditions. Dissertation projects could focus on the importance of uncertainty for children and adolescents capabilities. How influence the experience of unemployment, of working poor situations and poverty the position of a child in family and peer group? Doctoral students could use the data from RS's longitudinal study and/or collect qualitative data, e.g. biographical interviews with adults, adolescents and children